YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 28.—A conference between executives of the Republic Steel Corporation, city officials of Cleveland and Major-General Gilson D. Light, commander of the Ohio National Guard in this area, aroused speculation today. The rumored possibility that Republic Steel, one of the four big independent steel companies involved in the strike, might be planning to expand its operations to the Cleveland area was given no official verification. In Major-General Light's behalf it was stated the topic discussed at the conference was "the decided increase in the back-to-work movement."

The conference was held in the Youngstown armory. No details were given out. Among those who visited General Light were Elliott Ness, safety director of Cleveland; his assistant, Robert W. Chamberlain; R. J. Wyso, executive of Republic Steel; C. M. White, executive vice president in charge of steel travel; Republic Steel; J. A. Voss, director of Industrial Relations of Republic, and Harry Woodhead, an official of (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

Double parking was very much in evidence on many of the downtown streets on Saturday, Pa New is informed.

North Mercer street, from Sheridan avenue to the city line, seems to be one of the projects that should be in line for repaving in the near future. It would be a much needed improvement, if improved, and would also lead to residential development of a large section that will at some future date be a part of the city of New Castle.

Corn and wheat seem to be flourishing on Lawrence county farms. Wheat harvest will probably be a little early this season. Some hay is already being cut on some Lawrence county farms, it is reported.

Cherry trees in many localities around the county are loaded down with nice ripe fruit, Pa New is told.

Employees of the street department were called out late Sunday afternoon to remove several large branches of a tree which had fallen down onto Rural avenue, obstructing traffic.

Pa New observed a motorist trying to look dignified Sunday afternoon while driving down Delaware avenue, just above Laurel boulevard, when one of his rear tires came off and went bounding down the street ahead of him.

Oiling operations are being started in the district by employees of the State Highway Department, the Detroit Bulletin for the week of June 25-July 2, reveals. No oiling operations will be carried out immediately preceding the Fourth of July holiday, however. There are no new detours listed on the map in the local district.

Report 6000 At Work In Johnstown Plant

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 28.—More than 6,000 men were reported at work today in the Cambria works of the Bethlehem Steel corporation as strike leaders made an apparent last minute effort to rally new support with threats of a boycott.

Despite a second "invasion" by 2,000 coal miners to strengthen the strikers a checkup revealed not more than 250 striking steel workers at the various picket lines along the seven-mile-long strike front. No major disorder was reported.

Two men received minor injuries in a scuffle with pickets. Six negro workers were escorted to safety by State police, and a brick was thrown through the window of a trolley car which two of them boarded.

In a thinly veiled threat, voiced in the form of a question, James Mark, CIO director in charge of the strike, threatened to call a general boycott of the city's business interests unless support was forthcoming for the strike.

"What would the merchants and business men and the professional men of the city do," asked Mark. "If the 18,000 members of the Unit-

Democrats Hopeful Of Smoother Sailing After Island Parley

By GEORGE DUNNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Administration leaders entertained high hopes today that President Roosevelt's legislative program was due for smoother sailing in the future as a result of the three-day Democratic "harmony outing" on Jefferson Island.

Efforts to get a congressional adjournment by early August apparently had been abandoned but house and senate leaders agreed with White House aides that the president had used his "personality to good advantage in 'smoothing off' a lot of rough edges."

The supreme court enlargement battle, which will open on the senate floor immediately after the July 4 recess, remained a key issue. It was reported the administration would fall back on a compromise of two additional supreme court justices instead of six, hopeful the opposition would not filibuster.

Filibuster Remains Problem
The filibuster problem admittedly remained an open question. Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana, who attended the Sunday session at the Chesapeake Bay retreat, said the opposition "can beat six or four" and with respect to two justices "can talk all summer." All of the court bill opponents denied that Mr. Roosevelt had discussed the issue with them.

But there seemed to be a general feeling, as a result of the Jefferson Island party, that this week congressional Democrats would be able to get together and decide which measures could be passed and which would have to go over until next session.

Senate majority leader Joseph T. Robinson, present all three days and two nights, said adjournment was (Continued On Page Two)

National Jamboree Will Open Wednesday—Expect 25,000 Scouts

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Boy Scouts to the number of 11,944 peered from between sodden tent flaps today into a mist that failed to dampen the spirit of their first national jamboree.

From between white sheets of naval hospital, the 11,945th scout, Bedford Riley, 14, of Lubbock, Texas, smiled sheepishly at nurses and agreed his emergency appendix removal had been a success.

The number of scouts camped today was 2,000 larger than had been anticipated for the day, due to the arrival of complete contingents from areas which had been slated to send only groups of delegates.

See Economic Warfare Between Britain And Germany Over Spain

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 28.—Economic warfare between Britain and Germany and a diplomatic controversy over collective security in Europe threatened today as a result of Chancellor Hitler's blunt speech admitting he wants the rebels to win in Spain so the Reich can import Spain's iron ore.

Fears that the British attitude may stiffen as a result of Hitler's declaration were felt here because Spain is now one of Britain's chief sources of iron ore. The Reich wants to cut in on Britain's supply. At the same time, alarmed by the Führer's intimation that Germany is finished with European collective security plans, Britain instructed its ambassador in Berlin immediately to question the German government as to Hitler's exact intentions.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 28.—Despite nine arrests, six on charges of molesting, the situation in the Youngstown steel strike area was quiet today with the companies issuing figures tending to show they were slowly nearing normal operations.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company and Republic Steel Corporation announced through National Guard headquarters that 15,617 men had returned to work this morning and last night in this district. The normal number employed in the Youngstown area alone is about 28,000.

John Owens, CIO strike leader in this district, sharply disputed these figures, saying:

Large Crowd Shares Tin Workers Picnic At Cascade Park

Filling Cascade Park Saturday afternoon and evening, tin mill workers of Shenango and New Castle plants, their families and friends enjoyed the fourth annual Tin Mill Day. From noon until almost midnight the huge crowd packed the concessions, enjoyed the dancing, heard a program of speeches and cheered on their favorites in the various athletic contests.

For a time the weather man wore a scowl but early in the afternoon convinced the crowd he was only fooling and the threatened rain turned into a hot June afternoon. The burned faces of the hot mill men were soon matched by the burned faces of those out without any hats but it was all a part of a successful outing.

Police Say They Have Complete Confession To Triple Gedeon Murders

Irwin Gives Up In Chicago—Taken To New York By Plane

(BULLETIN)

NEW YORK, June 28.—After defying police questioners for six hours, Robert Irwin cracked today, made a complete confession of the triple Gedeon murders, agreed to re-enact them and then plunged into sleep in a "suicide-proof" cell.

Much of his chestiness was gone after he talked to Professor Frederick Wertham, prominent alienist attached to Bellevue. His official confession came a few minutes later, and it was believed that the alienist had warned him that his only hope was to tell all.

The 29-year-old sculptor, who surrendered in Chicago where he boastfully described the murders of Veronica Gedeon, the artist's model; her mother, Mary, and a boarder, Frank Byrnes, was to appear at the police lineup after a brief rest.

To Reenact Crimes
Then he was to be arraigned on a short affidavit. After that there was to be the reenactment of his crimes in the apartment house at 318 E. 50th street.

Both District Attorney Dodge and Police Commissioner Valentine said that the "revised and corrected" confession would be hurried before the grand jury.

"We are more than pleased with the night's results," Valentine told reporters.

It was shortly after midnight when Irwin, strutting, posing, was ushered into the office of Assistant (Continued On Page Ten)

And though next month it is hot by day and torrid by night as well, you'll have to admit that his June like brand is something that's rather swell. EARLE IS IN CONTROVERSY

See Reaction To His Strike Move

Action At Johnstown Is Likely To Have Strong Political Effect

WILL BE FACTOR IN STATE CAMPAIGNS

By FREDERICK N. POLANGIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, June 28.—Gov. George H. Earle, and through him the entire state Democratic party, today found himself being buffeted by a cross-current of public opinion bound to create a burning political issue for his action in the Johnstown strike-crisis.

His declaration of martial law and subsequent steps in closing down the Bethlehem Steel company occurred too recently for the state's voters, and those who influence their action properly to crystallize their sentiment on the question, observers say.

To Be Campaign Factor
When a "settled" perspective is reached it was pointed out, both Democrats and Republicans will find plenty to talk about during the fall elections, and, more important, the 1938 gubernatorial campaign.

Governor Earle has made his stand clear. He said he will stand or fall on his decisions with reference to the Johnstown situation, pointing out that he believed he had but two choices, "dollars and lives," that he chose the latter.

His critics held the governor had overstepped his bounds, that he had deprived the steel workers from returning to their jobs by closing down the plant, maintaining that the C.I.O. was in the minority.

Further, his assailants declared that the governor's proper choice should have been the declaration of martial law, if he so insisted, but only to protect those who wanted to return to the mills.

To this, the governor's answer was that the Cambria plant was the source of infection and had to be closed necessarily to avoid bloodshed.

Political Capital Seen
Political capital was and will be made of his action, for the C.I.O.

REPUBLIC MAY BE PLANNING TO EXTEND ACTIVITY

Truscon Steel Company, a subsidiary of Republic with plants in Cleveland, Canton and elsewhere.

Here in Youngstown, one of the focal points in the seven-state steel strike, the C. I. O. has been admittedly losing ground in the past 48 hours and the steel officials have made no secret of their jubilation. The "back-to-work" movement in the plants of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and the Republic Steel Corporation has been gaining ground.

Claims Are Disputed

Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, and other C. I. O. officials emphatically dispute the claims of the companies that the men are going back to their jobs in droves. They say company figures are greatly exaggerated and that not more than 15,000 of the 100,000 men affected by the strike in the four big independent steel companies have returned to their jobs.

The companies involved are Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Bethlehem and Inland Steel.

Murray, whose headquarters is in Pittsburgh, was planning to come to Youngstown today to rally his forces. He insists the fight has "just begun" and that the C. I. O. eventually will win out, assertions that are ridiculed by company executives.

The conference of steel executives with Major-General Light aroused considerable speculation here. In the absence of any specific explanation it was believed an attempt may be under way to extend the operation of martial law to the Cleveland district.

Approximately 8,000 men are on strike in Cleveland in the Truscon Steel, Corrihan-McKinney, Upson Nut, and Sheet & Tube, Inc.

The national guardsmen are on duty in Mahoning, Trumbull and Stark counties. After Gov. Martin L. Davey declared a modified form of martial law in the two former counties he extended military rule to Stark county where a number of Republic subsidiary plants had been in the throes of a strike.

6,000 Guardsmen On Duty.

About 6,000 militiamen are on duty in the Youngstown-Niles-Warren area. The strength of the Ohio national guard is around 10,000. The question of finances is involved, it was said in the calling out of any additional troops. If, however, the situation hereabouts was sufficiently calm no great cost would be involved in diverting troops to Cleveland, if the governor decided such a move was advisable.

A statement issued by Major-General Light said:

"Conferences were held at military headquarters at which reports were received on operations of steel companies in the (Youngstown) district. We met first with Youngstown Sheet & Tube company representatives, and later representatives of the Republic Steel corporation were here."

The nature of the conference with the Republic Steel executives was not revealed in the statement. International News Service approached the Republic officials immediately after the conference but they declined to comment.

General Light's statement further said that at 6 o'clock Sunday evening 18,328 employees were working in the Youngstown area, based on figures he had received from the companies.

Little Unusual Activity.

"There was very little activity reported to this headquarters over the week-end, other than that incidental to the orderly return of workers and resumption of production," the general's statement said.

The general reported that information from Republic Steel at Warren, O., that a red monoplane had circled the company's plant there several times resulted in the conclusion that an aerial "sight-see" had been up for a look at the strike zone.

Several thousand motoring sight-seers were detained from the strike area by deputy sheriffs and city police.

John Owens, C. I. O. director for Ohio, in charge of the steel strike in this district, sent a telegram to Governor Davey in which he charged that a "systematic campaign of terror" is being perpetrated by Youngstown city police, Sheriff Ralph Elser and abetted by the Ohio national guard, against steel workers.

Murray Makes Charges.

Pittsburgh, June 28.—Officials of the strike-bound independent steel companies and Maj. Gen. Light D. Light in command of national guard troops in the strike area met Sunday in a "secret" conference, Philip Murray, chairman of the steel workers organizing committee, charged today.

"I publicly charge that in Youngstown yesterday afternoon there was a secret meeting between R. J. W. Light, president of Republic Steel, and other company executives with Maj. Gen. Light D. Light with the hope of having the Ohio national guard sent into Cleveland to break the strike there," Murray asserted.

"The object of this secret meeting was to have Maj. Gen. Light tell Gov. Martin L. Davey that troops could be spared from the Mahoning valley and sent into Cleveland. We may look for such a further strike breaking maneuver."

"It is customary for such matters to go first to the governor, then to the adjutant general and then to the militia in the field. But Republic Steel officials are so confident they can use the Ohio national guard for their own purposes that they arranged the secret meeting."

Murray said he was leaving late this afternoon to make an exhaustive survey of the Youngstown strike situation. He said that company "was grossly exaggerating as to the number of men returning to the Youngstown plant."

The C. I. O. leader revealed that a house to house canvass was being conducted in Youngstown to determine actual figures on how many steel workers returned to work.

FAITH

After reading in the New Wilmington Globe of June 24, 1937, the names of the prominent people who hold high salaried positions which are being paid out of the taxpayers' money, who never return one cent of it as income tax to help keep up the expenses of the government, we are not surprised that there are some people who evade entirely, or pay as little income tax as possible.

It is a wonder the public taxpayers do not stage a sit-down strike and pay no taxes at all, until all people are treated equal.

They will spend the day at the summer home of their daughter, Mrs. William G. Braatz, where there will be a family dinner at 6 o'clock. In the evening, friends are invited to call at "The Cottage," near Harlansburg, on the Perry highway.

The venerable couple have three daughters, Mrs. Velma Davis, Mrs. Burdie Braatz, and Mrs. Edna Hickling. There are three grandchildren, William Baha Fox, the Misses Winifred and Betty Hickling.

He was with the company for 52 years, receiving a gold medal from the company upon his retirement a few years ago. Both he and Mrs. Baha are enjoying very good health.

In connection with the golden wedding observance of her parents, it is particularly interesting to note that one of their daughters and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Braatz, will celebrate their silver wedding anniversary on July 3, with open house, at their summer home at Harlansburg.

Proceeding the service, Kathryn Nessel Allen, organist, played several lovely numbers including, "Liebestraum" and "Dreams" from "Tristan and Isolde." The traditional processional music from "Lohengrin" was heard as the bride was escorted by her father, Dr. W. L. Campbell, to the altar. Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played for the recessional.

The date for the picnic has been set for July 13 at Cascade park. At a later date, complete plans will be announced in The News.

WHEN LABOR AND CAPITAL JOIN HANDS

BY SIGNING the revised Railroad Pension act President Roosevelt puts the seal on a social security system especially designed for the 1,150,000 workers engaged in transportation. The background of this beneficial measure is interesting.

The courts had declared unconstitutional two previous pension laws for railroad employees. Mr. Roosevelt in advocating his plan to effect sweeping changes in the personnel of the Supreme Court cited these decisions as instances of judicial obstacles to progressive legislation.

Without delay the managements and representatives of the employees' union got together to discuss the possibility of framing a new bill that would be satisfactory to both sides.

Such a bill was drafted and presented to congress and passed without difficulty. The employers and employees have agreed not to raise any question regarding its legal validity. The measure, incidentally, provides for more liberal benefits, in return for higher average contributions by the railroads and their employees, than are contained in the old age pension section of the National Security Law.

Here is a wholesome demonstration of the fact that it is not necessary to tinker with the supreme court or even to add another amendment to the constitution in order to obtain a measure of social welfare affecting a multitude of workers engaged in one of the country's greatest industries.

HE LOST TWO MILLIONS AND LIKES IT

The Oklahoma cold-storage magnate who lost a $2,000,000 fortune in the crash and learned to like it isn't the first person since Midas who found it possible to enjoy living without the encumbrance of great riches.

Once dwelling in a palatial home, able to spend thousands as he pleased, this depression refugee now lives in seclusion, satisfied with his modest income from poems peddled under a pen-name.

"I've found the way to live," he says. "I went broke and I like it. I wouldn't have another fortune if you gave it to me."

To many unable to afford the luxury of losing $2,000,000 this philosophy may seem appealing, even comforting. Nevertheless they will probably be quite willing to forego, if possible, the "joys" of going broke.

WHEN MOTORISTS CRASH THE GATE

An analysis of grade crossing accidents in 1936, just completed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, shows that 38 per cent, or 1432, were caused by motorists crashing into the side of moving trains. These collisions were responsible for more than 500 fatalities.

It might be thought that better protection at grade crossings would have saved most of these lives. But the commission finds that one-third of this special class of fatal accidents occurred at crossings where watchmen were on guard or mechanical devices had been installed.

"Crashing the gate" happens when a driver fails to keep his car under control. As for the waving of warning flags by watchmen, it seems to have little effect on recklessly speeding drivers.

Elimination of crossings at grade has made considerable progress in some sections of the country and particularly in the approaches to large cities. It is recognized that the railroads are unable to bear the entire burden and some states and local communities have borne a share of the cost.

It does not seem likely that the present generation will witness the abolition of all these death traps. But it is a reform that must eventually be effected. Separation of grades is the only practicable safeguard.

MAKE IT SAFE AND SANE

Some twenty years ago a general effort was exerted (it had been tried in some suburban communities before that) to make the celebration of the Glorious Fourth less risky for life and limb. For a time there was a movement toward municipal and official celebrations, the idea being to concentrate the hubbub in conservative hands. It worked fairly well for a while, then the Old Adam got started and in many places there were two celebrations, the official and unofficial, with the usual results.

Ride almost anywhere outside of the larger cities and you will encounter roadside stands at which the old-fashioned fire-crackers, fireworks and all the concomitants of the whizz-bang Fourth are being purchased. Nobody seems to care much, so the condition must have popular favor behind it.

The "safe and sane Fourth" has encountered hard going. It is by no means a dead letter, but neither is it universally popular. Bootlegging got its first taste of fame in the days of prohibition. There is still much of it despite restoration of legal selling under license. Fireworks can be "bootlegged" in a sense, and the old urge dies hard. One will not have to bend an ear to hear the noise; in fact, it began days ago.

This being the case, it is up to the heads of families, individual householders, to do what they can to curb the nuisance. The "boys will be boys" attitude is juvenile. The local laws still stand; it is up to you, and you, and you to make them worth something.

You may not need a car, but it certainly enables you to take life easier.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SHY CHILDREN

"DEAR DR. MYERS: I have a boy in my Sunday school class five years of age. I have had him for two years in the nursery classes. At the age of four he was promoted to the beginners' class, but when he found he had to have a new teacher he quit coming. I went to see him and he promised to come back if he could return to my class, which we consented to do. From time to time I have taken him into the beginners' class, stressing the fact that he is a big boy now and ready for promotion, but as soon as I am about to return to my class he will take my hand, fairly quiver with fear, get up and follow me. He will do anything I tell him when it comes to his handwork. He will co-operate in most ways, but will seldom speak a word. As soon as anyone asks him a question he crawls into his little shell in a most pathetic fashion.

"I won the lad's confidence by calling on him personally at his home and taking especial interest in him. The new teacher is trying to do the same. ...

"My heart aches for this little fellow, and I do want to do everything possible to help him. Have you any suggestions to offer? A stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed."

I answered her in about this fashion: Your deep interest in that timid little child greatly appeals to me. I discuss his type of problem in my book, "Building Personality in Children." You and the other teacher will get best results by working indirectly. He found you so sympathetic that you provided another "mother-attachment," when his real problem is to grow more attached to other children.

He probably is over-protected at home and still unconvinced emotionally. Encourage his parents to attract other children his age, of the immediate neighborhood, to his home (not formal parties), to go with him to other homes of young children, and, having guaranteed his physical safety, to encourage his free play with other children about his home, out in the open, settling his own quarrels and fighting his own battles. Perhaps they might visit with him in the homes of some of the children of the new class, or go with him to Sunday school, or go with him to call for some of them.

We fail to realize, as a rule, how much the Sunday school is doing to socialize young children, even though there are some problems there hard to deal with.

DOMESTIC QUESTION AND ANSWER

WOMEN ARE people who can smile—right after breakfast, of all times—and say to their husbands: "What shall we have for dinner tonight?"

And men are people who almost never can put their thinking cap on—surely not right after breakfast, at any rate—and tell their wives that they want for dinner.

What wife ever did receive an intelligent or half way useful answer to that question when he isn't hungry? When a man is hungry he can suggest 15 or 20 dishes right off. He can mention several kinds of meat, half a dozen vegetables that aren't in season, any number of tempting desserts. Or if he can't suggest a meal that is practicable or within the family budget, he CAN give his wife some kind of starting point for departure. (A husband isn't married many years, anyway, before he learns that when his wife asks his advice about food or clothes, she isn't really expecting a useful answer—but is merely using the strange creature as a starting point for her own mental activity.)

Every husband will admit that this is true, every wife will deny it vigorously.

Husbands sometimes wonder why their wives ever do ask them—right after breakfast: "What do you want for dinner tonight, dear?" And why the wife is sometimes slightly annoyed when he isn't half as much help as Edgar Bergen's Charlie McCarthy would be. Men don't understand how a woman can think of the next meal immediately after the last one. The answer is simple and even I can figure it out.

It's because running the house is the woman's JOB. She can think about it as coolly, as unemotionally, about it as about HIS work. She is a man can about HIS work. She needn't be hungry to plan a meal. She can plan it as an artist, a craftsman, a workman—right after breakfast, right after lunch, any old time. If she waited until she was hungry it would never be done at all.

And why can't a husband ever get that through his head? I'm sure I don't know. I didn't know the answer, myself I sat down here and figured it all out.

Last week there were four newspapers in New York and there are only two in their places now. Newspapers are getting fewer and fewer every year. It's no fun to run a newspaper.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

Childie Hassam, famous painter, said in an interview:

"There are rich American collectors who buy fancy pictures in Paris, and let splendid pictures by Americans go begging.

"These collectors haven't as much critical ability as a cowboy. A cowboy in Paris was taken to an exhibition of paintings.

"Well, they asked him, 'what do you think of it?'

"I've got an aunt in Red Gulch," said the cowboy "who can knit better pictures than these."

DEAR MISS MARKEL—My wedding will take place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. I intend to have a few friends and the groom's family attend my small reception held at a woman's club near my home. Since the hour is too early for dinner, what kind of refreshments would you advise?

Answer—As your refreshments will be served between 4 and 5 o'clock (tea time), afternoon tea would be the most appropriate menu for this purpose. Since no substantial foods should be served in mid-afternoon, tea, small, assorted sandwiches, wedding cake and bon bon: will be sufficient.

It is customary, although not obligatory, in such cases for the bride's parents to invite the groom's family and the wedding party to dinner.

Dear Miss Markel—"A" claims that a housecoat was intended for home use only. "B" insists that it may be worn, with or without a hat, while working in the garden. Who is right? A SUBURBANITE.

Answer—A housecoat really takes the place of a negligee and should not be worn outdoors. It is intended for moments of dishabille.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing a self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

Every time you tell your children the story of Little Red Riding Hood and the Big Bad Wolf, you're talking about Henry VIII!

This "Mother Goose" tale, like some other nursery rhymes, originated as a discreet criticism of the king. Red Riding Hood represented the monasteries with their hooded monks, whose property was gobbled up by "big bad wolf" Henry. "Sing a Song of Sixpence" was an old thrust at him, who suppressed speech as completely as it is in Germany, Italy and Russia, today, forcing the citizens of his time into much the same oblique ways of speaking as Germans, Italians and Russians use today.

MR. AND MRS. FORREST GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

A golden wedding is indeed something of which to boast, and on Saturday, June 26, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ira Forrest of North Liberty, who are well known here, celebrated such an event, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Harry E. Barnes, 319 East Wallace avenue.

"Open House" was observed in the afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock, and in the evening from 7 until 9, during which time hosts of friends, neighbors and relatives numbering nearly two hundred, called to extend congratulations.

At 6 o'clock dinner was served to members of the immediate family, covers marking for forty-seven, everyone being present. The table was beautifully appointed in keeping with the celebration, and an abundance of flowers received from friends, filled the rooms throughout. Clusters of the same were used effectively in completing the table decorations.

Mrs. Forrest, a native of Loami, Ill., reached her sixty-eighth birthday anniversary on May 16. She is one of a family of three children, the daughter of Abigail Kinney and Jesse T. Underwood. Mr. Forrest is next to the eldest of seven children, and he is a native of Plaingrove, his birthday falling on November 14, when he will be seventy. He is the son of Mrs. Rebecca Donley Forrest, now in her ninety-fourth year, who lives in Grove City. His father was the late Munson Walker Forrest.

The honored couple are well known here, having lived in this vicinity for forty years, up until four years ago when they moved to North Liberty. They were members of the Central Presbyterian church while located in this vicinity.

At the time of their wedding on June 26, 1887 at Linden, Kansas, both Mr. and Mrs. Forrest were teachers. The late Rev. J. P. Barber officiated.

They are the parents of the following children: Milo W. Forrest of the M. Jackson road; Mrs. James E. Campbell of Girard, O.; Jesse M. Forrest, Mrs. Reuben C. Miller, Mrs. Harry E. Barnes, Robert Carol Forrest and Mrs. E. H. Pelt, all of this city. Their third child, Abigail, deceased. They have thirteen grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Guests attended from Pittsburgh, Harlansburg, Grove City, California, and other nearby and distant localities.

Adding much to the enjoyment of the day, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest received a beautiful collection of gifts, testifying to the esteem in which they are held.

ON HONEYMOON TO BERMUDAS

A honeymoon trip to Bermuda will be followed by a new home on Riverside Drive, New York City, for Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Paul Swanton, whose marriage took place the past week in the Broadway Presbyterian church, New York City, with the Rev. John H. McComb officiating.

The bride the former Ruth Van Doren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Van Doren of Peapack, N. J., is a member of the theory faculty of the Institute of Musical Art of the Juilliard School of Music.

Mr. Swanton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Swanton of Norwood, this city, who have just returned from the wedding, is with the Union Carbide & Carbon corporation.

Roosevelt-DuPont Wedding Will Take Place On Wednesday

Franklin D., Jr. and Ethel duPont

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

International News Service Special Correspondent.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 28.—Ethel duPont and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., will be married Wednesday in a classic "all white" ceremony—old-fashioned, unpretentious.

The whole wedding will cost "less than $50,000," it was said today. The duPonts are determined to keep it simple.

The dramatic "all white" motif will be carried out in every detail from the bride's slippers to the ribbon on the bows.

Neither will ask Miss duPont to "obey" young Mr. Roosevelt. They are using the regular Protestant Episcopal service, which hasn't contained an "obey" for eight years.

Guests who want to glimpse the groom's mother will have to look quickly. The wedding day comes on the night of her weekly broadcast, and since the show must go on she will dash from nuptials to microphone. It is possible, however, that when the broadcast is over she will dash back.

Even the first lady is carrying out to some extent the "all white" formula chosen by Ethel. Her dress at the wedding will be of printed white chiffon.

"Obey" Is Omitted.

By a novel arrangement, the marriage will be performed by two clergymen—one the regular duPont

pastor, the other a minister who traditionally officiates at Roosevelt weddings.

The Rev. Frederick T. Ashton, representing the duPont forces, will conduct the proceedings up to the part where he asks if anyone knows any reason why these two should not be joined together.

Then the Rev. Endicott Peabody of Groton church will continue the ceremony.

Then the Rev. Endicott Peabody of Groton church will continue the ceremony.

"Obey" Is Omitted.

Neither will ask Miss duPont to "obey" young Mr. Roosevelt. They are using the regular Protestant Episcopal service, which hasn't contained an "obey" for eight years.

Guests who want to glimpse the groom's mother will have to look quickly. The wedding day comes on the night of her weekly broadcast, and since the show must go on she will dash from nuptials to microphone. It is possible, however, that when the broadcast is over she will dash back.

Even the first lady is carrying out to some extent the "all white" formula chosen by Ethel. Her dress at the wedding will be of printed white chiffon.

By a novel arrangement, the marriage will be performed by two clergymen—one the regular duPont

pastor, the other a minister who traditionally officiates at Roosevelt weddings.

The Rev. Frederick T. Ashton, representing the duPont forces, will conduct the proceedings up to the part where he asks if anyone knows any reason why these two should not be joined together.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

Democrat Split Is More Evident

Northern Senators Aid
President In Recent Appropriation Vote

PARTY NAMES MEANINGLESS

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 28.—It is true that President Roosevelt won his senate fight for a $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation by a 49-to-34 (13 absentees) majority, which was adequate.

But that doesn't tell the whole story.

If it had been strictly a party vote the result should have been 66 Democrats versus 14 Republicans, not counting the absentees or three others who did vote—a Farmer-Laborite, a Progressive and an Independent.

That would have been more than adequate; it would have been overwhelming.

ONE-THIRD DESERTED

Administrationists argue that the president did win overwhelmingly (44 faithful Democrats against 22 Democratic bolters).

Two-to-one. Pretty good, according to the administrationist reckoning.

Yes, but put it another way. One-third of the president's own party members deserted. That's quite a large proportion.

SOUTHERNERS BOLT

That isn't the whole story, either. Southern senators, if any senators at all, are supposed to be thick-and-thin Democrats—simply inseparable from any Democratic administration, regardless of anything and everything.

Yet, of those 22 bolters, 15 were from southern or border states—the former, hitherto, always, and the latter generally 100 per cent Democratic.

GETS NORTHERN VOTES

President Roosevelt won because he got the votes of most of the northern Democratic senators.

He got the votes of senators from states which, in the past, generally have been Republican. For example, he got two Iowa votes. I grew up in that state. Until recent years it was as Republican as Virginia always has been deemed Democratic. Today Virginia has two Democratic senators voting against a Democratic presidential policy. And two Iowa senators vote in its favor.

Roosevelt likewise got three New England ballots, a couple from Pennsylvania and Michigan—the votes of senators from formerly (and recently) solidly Republican territory.

REVERSED POSITIONS

Those are rather conspicuous inconsistencies.

Plenty of others are not much less so.

It looks almost as if the north were turning Democratic and the south were turning Republican.

That is to say, that's how it looks on the theory that the Roosevelt administration is Democratic, as labeled. Otherwise, why is the south deserting it and the north flocking to its banner?

Or are the labels wrong? Or have they been swapped? Or does anything political mean anything?

A MIX-UP

It is not alone that Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, who is the Democrats' (and therefore the administration's) senate leader, fought the administration on the relief bill issue.

He was fought, in turn, on the same issue, by his two chief lieutenants, Senator Allen W. Barkley of Kentucky and James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois.

But Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who is almost as influential as Robinson, Barkley and Lewis, supported Robinson. Robinson also was aided by Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Republicans' senate leader.

Isn't that a nice mixup?

PARTY NAMES MEANINGLESS
The fact is that the two old party names no longer signify anything.

There still are two main parties, with some intermediate groups between them, but there no longer are Republicans and Democrats, as they used to be known. And there isn't much sectionalism—or, if there is, it is a new kind of sectionalism. Industrially and agriculturally there may be some, but it is not geographical.

It has been insisted on for long years since it has been non-existent, and perhaps it will lap over into another couple of national conventions, but it cannot survive indefinitely.

Registration Is Slow In Mercer

Small Proportion Of County
Voters Register On First Of Three Days

(Special To The News)
MERCER, June 28.—Only a small number of eligible Mercer county voters took advantage of the first of the three days set aside for permanent registration, it was announced today at the headquarters of the permanent registration commission at Mercer. Conditions were alike in towns and townships. Frank McConnon, chief clerk of the registration commission, reports that clerks were able to register voters at the rate of one in every one and one-half minutes.

In the borough of Mercer only 277 voters of an eligible 1,224 registered on the first day. They included 160 Republicans, 114 Democrats, two Prohibitionists and one non-partisan.

To D. K. Callahan of Greenville, a county commissioner, went the honor of signing the No. 1 registration card. Robert Jamison of Fredonia, also a county commissioner, signed the No. 2 card. Judge George H. Rowley, No. 3, and District Attorney Moon No. 4.

July 15 and August 14 are the other days when voters may register permanently at the polling places before the fall primaries. Registrations will also be made each day during regular business hours at the office of the commissioners in the court house.

Mountain Choir Festival In July

Festival In Maryland July 17,
18; Week Of Mission Study
Will Precede

During the week preceding the fourth annual "Mountain Choir Festival", to be held at Mountain Lake Park, Md., on Saturday and Sunday, July 17 and 18, many additional visitors will come to Maryland's mountain colony. They will take part in programs including the study of home and foreign missions, Biblical research, religious pageantry, and several courses of lectures, offered by the 21st annual session of the Mountain Lake Park Interdenominational Summer School of Missions, from Saturday, July 10, to Friday, July 16, inclusive.

At the close of the week ancient church music and almost forgotten medieval church ritual will be revived when the "Mountain Choir's" festival chorus of 1,000 voices, led by the distinguished conductor of the Westminster Choir, Dr. John Finley Williamson, brings the festival to a stirring conclusion on Sunday night, July 18.

Koreans, since the annexation of their country by Japan, have worn white clothes as a symbol of their grief and shame.

AND NOW FOR A PICNIC LUNCH.
"I always think of smoking Camels and eating as going together," adds Miss Wheeden, on the motor boat.
"I smoke Camels—and enjoy the sense of well-being that good digestion brings me."

"SPORT, even for the fun of it, can be tiring," says Miss Gloria Wheeden, who here shows her skill at aquaplaning. "Yes, I smoke," she says. "When I feel a bit let-down, I light up a Camel and get a 'lift' in energy." A suggestion: When an active day drains physical and nervous energy, you can get a delightful "lift" from a Camel. They never get on your nerves.

20 MILES AN HOUR on a skittery board is thrill enough! But Gloria Wheeden is a daring miss who hikes it up to 40 (upper left picture). Executes a hand-stand (above). SLEWS around a fast turn with two aboard (right). There's no doubt about her nerves being healthy. "Camels are head and shoulders on top for mildness," she says. "Much as I smoke, they don't bother my nerves a bit."

1060 PARACHUTE JUMPS. That's the record of Floyd Stimson, who started smoking Camels 10 years ago. "I've found just what I want in Camels. Mildness—tastiness—a lift when I'm tired," he says.

"MANY A TIME I've smoked a Camel to get a lift," says Harry Burmester, printer. "Camels have the goodness you'd expect from costlier tobaccos. Camel's mildness suits me to perfection."

Answer Fifth Call For Fires In Same Building

Structure Occupied By Barron
Hardware Store Found
Ablaze Again Last Evening

For the fifth time since May 10, firemen were summoned to the Barron Hardware company building at 1223 Moravia street at 8:15 p. m. Sunday, where they found a blaze had been started between the walls in the rear of the building.

The fires have been discovered promptly and have been extinguished before much damage could be done, the blaze last evening causing a loss of about $20.

Several other alarms were answered Sunday evening and this morning. At 9:20 Sunday evening, one of the wires leading into the service station and home of Carl Witherow, 808 State street, became shorted and got red hot. There was no loss.

At 10:50 this morning firemen were called to the home of John Shenker on Conner avenue, where they found the home full of smoke. Mrs. Shenker was burning paper in the furnace and the smoke filled the house when the draft did not function.

No. 3 fire truck went out of commission coming to Central station on the alarm from box 62 last evening, but is back in service this morning after repairs were made.

Women Continue To Occupy Room At W.P.A. Building

Still occupying the conference room of the Works Progress Administration building on South Mill street, the women conducting the sit-down strike are undaunted as yet. Over the week end they were reinforced by a number of other women of the WPA.

In the WPA offices today it was said that all of the eight workers who struck in sympathy with the ones laid off, had gone back to work. However, they join their sit-down sisters in the evening and the crowd spending the night in the office is much larger than the number in the room during the day.

Foodstuffs, blankets, camp chairs, a radio, an electric grill and other conveniences have been brought in to the women and they are eating well they say. The floor by this time shows the need of some soap and water.

No move has been made by the WPA authorities to end the sit-down as the women are boxed off from the rest of the building and are not interfering with the work of the office force.

Judge Chambers Hears Appeal For Convicted Man

Appeal Made In Behalf Of Martin J. Sullivan, Slayer Of Five, At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 28.—Martin J. Sullivan, the 73-year-old Duquesne patrolman who killed five persons in a murder orgy, today pleaded guilty to the four remaining charges against him.

Already convicted and doomed to the electric chair by a jury for the one slaying for which he was tried, Sullivan, who used to rouse his face and wear a wig, mumbled "guilty" four times as the clerk of courts read the indictments.

Then he watched glumly while his court-appointed attorney, Edward G. Coll, argued before a full bench against the death penalty decreed by a jury for the killing of Mrs. Laura Bacon, a social worker. Coll told Judges J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong county; James A. Chambers, of Lawrence county, and Ralph H. Smith, of Allegheny county, that Sullivan's conviction was based chiefly on "hearsay" evidence. The commonwealth was given a week to file briefs.

Morality charges preferred by Mrs. Bacon sent Sullivan off on a rampage that ended with the five persons he believed responsible for his predicament all dead.

Circus Wire Wizards Also Topline Acrobats

The amazingly clever Naitto troupe with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus

Refuting the old saw that there is nothing new under the sun, the famous Naittos, world famous wire somersaulting troupe with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Circus, coming to New Castle, Wednesday, July 7, perform the routines of two unrelated acts in one—that of a stellar tight wire offering and that of a topline acrobatic number.

When the Naittos are doing exceedingly amazing tricks on the wire, they are not content unless they have other members of the troupe balancing on their shoulders and heads. Think of that—balancing, dancing, tumbling on the wire with the balance necessary to support a performing acrobat upside down.

Heading the Naittos is the world famous Nio Naitto, the darling of Europe and Asia, who is said to be the daughter of a Manchu princess, but whose enduring fame is based on her startling dancing and somersaulting agility on the tight wire. Nio was the toast of Asia when she was a child. She is now 23 years of age, and Europe has long since acclaimed her.

The Naittos are one of the many headline foreign acts appearing in the seven-ring-and-stage program of the Greatest Show on Earth, and they have the admiration of all of the 800 noted performers with the great organization.

Performances of the Big Show opening with the colossal new spectacle, "India," and presenting more gigantic features and innovations than ever before, will be given at 2 and 8 p. m. The doors will open at 1 and 7, affording time in which to view the world's largest traveling menagerie of more than a thousand rare animals.

Must Be Registered To Sign Petitions

Unregistered Voters Not Qualified To Sign Petition Of Candidates

If you are a candidate for office this year, be sure of your signers on your petition. Unless they are properly registered their signatures are void and your petition may be invalidated.

Under the new election code a citizen who signs a petition must not only be a member of the party upon which ticket the candidate is running, but he must also be registered under the new permanent registration laws.

In the city of New Castle this admonition will not be needed much, as most voters in the city are registered. In the country districts the possible signers of petitions are few as yet, as there are only about 2,200 rural voters registered. Any name signed to a petition must be that of a registered voter, and unless more of the rural voters register, many of the names secured outside the city will be void.

Candidates petitions are already in evidence and candidates who have any rural voters on their petitions will be wise to check them to see if they have registered.

POPULAR SALESMAN PRAISES VENDOL FOR QUICK RELIEF

Was A Victim For Years Of Nervous Indigestion, Gas In Stomach, Pains And cramps Due To Constipation. Says It Is Hard To Believe Vendol Could Do So Much Good.

MR. RAY A. WATSON

From all over this city and nearby towns, hundreds of outstanding men and women call daily on the Vendol Man in New Castle Drug Co., and tell how this new Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine has brought them astonishing relief. Many say it is the only thing that has helped them, though they had tried about everything they knew of. One of the latest to give a public statement is Mr. Ray A. Watson, residing at 229 Cedar Ave., Sharon, Pa., who says:

"I am so glad that I began taking Vendol that I came back to tell you how much good it has done for me. I had been a victim of constipation for years, which caused all kinds of trouble. I had taken every remedy I knew of, changing from one to another because they wore out, but Vendol seemed to be different and acted so pleasantly, giving gratifying relief."

"Now, the gas, sour stomach, acid rising, nervous indigestion and shortness of breath have been relieved. I never have that smothering feeling like I used to nor ever feel dizzy or have headaches."

"I used to feel bilious so much of the time, and awakened every morning with a bad taste in my mouth, tongue coated, and feeling so tired that it seemed I had not been to sleep. But all this is changed and I give Vendol all my thanks and praise. It is grand to be able again to enjoy a good meal and never suffer from sour stomach, gas, bloating, lump in the throat or gas cramps. I want to advise anyone suffering like I did to lose no time in getting Vendol."

"Make up your mind now to begin taking Vendol and put yourself on the road to better health. Come to New Castle Drug Co., 31 E. Washington St., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I will explain all about this great Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine that is helping so many people right here in our home town. No charge, so come today, if possible. Vendol is also sold by the New Castle Drug Co., at 21 N. Mill St., and by all other leading druggists everywhere."

SLAYER OF COLLEGE STEWARDESS IS EXECUTED

Roy Crittenton Is Executed

Execution Takes Place At Rockview Penitentiary Early This Morning

KILLED WOMAN AT CHRISTMAS DINNER

(International News Service) BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 28.—Mumbling prayers for mercy and forgiveness, Roy Crittenton, 37, Negro, went to his death in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary early today for the killing of Mrs. Mary S. Ginder, stewardess of the dining hall at Haverford college.

One shock of 2,000 volts and 11 amperes administered by Robert P. Elliot, the executioner, sent Crittenton to his doom a few minutes after 12:30 this morning.

Killed Woman At Christmas Dinner Enraged when she discharged him from his job in the kitchen of the college because of drunkenness, Crittenton killed the woman as she sat at a Christmas dinner with her family grouped about her.

Crittenton's conviction and death sentence were sustained by the supreme court and the state pardon board, his court of last resort, likewise refused him mercy.

The doomed Negro spent his last day quietly, seeking courage in prayers. He was accompanied to the chair by the Rev. C. F. Lauer, the prison chaplain. The body was claimed by his wife and returned to Media, Pa., for burial.

BURKE TO HEAD EXCHANGE CLUB, NEW GROUP HERE

Named President As Civic Organization Holds Opening Session

A. DARRELL BURKE

A Darrell Burke was elected as the first president of the Exchange club of New Castle when a group of the city's business and professional men gathered in The Castleton on Saturday to select their officers and to outline a program of community service.

Chosen to serve with him were Dr. Howard M. Smith, vice president; J. Kenneth Atkinson, secretary, and John P. Boyles, treasurer.

State Leader Attends Presiding over the luncheon meeting called for the purpose of organizing the local group was Charles M. Christler, Pittsburgh, immediate past president of the Pennsylvania Association of Exchange Clubs, who came direct to New Castle from York, Pa., where he had presided over the 1937 state convention.

The club decided to hold its next session in a downtown tearoom on Thursday evening, July 1. It will be a six o'clock dinner meeting.

Club committees will be named that night by President Burke and his staff.

The members were told Saturday that the 26th annual convention of the Exchange clubs of the nation will be held in Tampa, Fla., October 17 to 20, with a special trip to Cuba from October 20 to 25 being offered as an added feature.

Mr. Burke, who conducts a funeral home here, resides at 312 North Jefferson street. The Exchange club purposes are similar to those of Rotary, Kiwanis and the Lions.

AROUND CITY HALL

Perhaps it may not be amiss to toss a bouquet to George Harper, operator of a fire truck which had to wend its way through heavy traffic Saturday morning in East Washington street. The truck, enroute to answer a fire alarm, was forced to practically stop by a bus which was headed in the opposite direction. Skillful maneuvering on the part of Harper brought the truck through without any serious delay.

Session In City Hall This Morning

Council met in the City building today and was visited by representatives of city employees, relative to a request for a restoration of wages.

The officials reaffirmed their intention of making the restoration as soon as the city is in a financial condition to do so and providing it is legal to do so, but no definite action was taken today. This was the same attitude that council expressed in April.

During the meeting the employees presented a long opinion drafted by Attorney William McElwhe which said the city can use for lawful purposes assets not appropriated. The opinion also told council the power the body has during emergencies.

Councilman Joseph D. Alexander said the present situation to city employees is an emergency because the employees bread and butter are involved.

Council B. F. Butler said that in his opinion, back taxes are assets and declared that some men in his department are incurring debts because of the low wages they receive.

On motion of Councilman Alexander, Attorney McElwhe's opinion was referred to City Solicitor William D. Cobau.

Denies Her Car Damaged Hydrant

Miss Margaret Maher of Wampum today submitted a communication to council during their meeting at City Hall, in which she denied that the auto she drove several weeks ago had damaged a fire hydrant valve.

The letter was filed on motion of Councilman J. Myron Rice.

Close 'Y' Swimming Course With Hike

'Learn To Swim' Group's Instruction Ends; 30 Make Top Record

A hike out along the Shenango river Saturday brought to a close the annual 10-day free "learn-to-swim" course sponsored by the Y. M. C. A.

Led by two adult supervisors, John D. Thompson and Fred Freese, nearly 75 youths who have been taking the special swimming instruction hiked over a wide area and then returned to the "Y" for a bean dinner and a final dip in the pool.

William "Butch" Winter, in charge of the course, announced today that 30 of the boys this year accomplished the coveted goal of the course—swimming the 60-foot distance of the pool. He said 50 others could successfully negotiate distances ranging between 30 and 60 feet.

Helping Winter coach the non-swimmers were Jack Herbert, Michael Johns, Fred Freese, Rod Williams, Frank Anicello, Bill Thompson and Dario Baptiste, all competent instructors.

Announcement was made that the summer "nickel swims" of the "Y" opened today and are to be conducted for some time on a Monday-Wednesday-Friday schedule at 1:30 p. m.

Hobby School Opens At Y. M. C. A. Today

With 30 "Y" boys in attendance, the annual two-week summer hobby school of the Y. M. C. A. opened its metal tapping classes this morning. Handling the supervisory work the John D. Thompson, Alvin Brown and Dario Baptiste. They conduct the devotional period which opens all classes, the class work itself and the closing swimming period.

The attendance, it was said, will be limited to the 30 lads between eight and 15 years of age.

IRWIN AWAITS MURDER TRIAL IN NEW YORK

Chief Inspector Lyons at headquarters, and the long, grinding ordeal of questioning was under way.

Balks At Repeating Story.
Only Irwin, who had talked on and on in Chicago to reporters, wasn't in the mood to talk to the police. He sulked. Finally he openly defied his questioners.

"I've told my story once; that's enough," he said. "I won't even say whether my confession as published is correct."

They called in two reporters who had heard Irwin's boastful story in Chicago, but they couldn't make the sculptor talk.

When the sculptor balked, the police went after him again.

Three hours passed. The atmosphere was far from kindly. Apparently Irwin became worried; he wanted at least one friendly face. So, at his request, they sent for Prof. Wertham, associate professor of psychiatry, New York university, who had once treated Irwin at Bellevue.

Irwin and the alienist went to a nearby office. They could be heard talking earnestly. Within a few minutes they emerged, returned to the police room and the official confession came quickly.

Confession Complete.
At 6:25 this morning the confession was complete, and Irwin, no longer a dapper young man anxious to show off, was led to cell No. 1 at headquarters.

The sculptor lay on the cot, covered himself with his coat, used an arm as a pillow. At 6:31 he was sound asleep. At 8 he was still sleeping.

Irwin was rushed here by plane from Chicago last night. When the plane landed at Floyd Bennett field, the prisoner waved jauntily to the crowd of 2,000, then commanded his detective escort.

"Take me out of here quick. I'm getting tired of crowds."
In Chicago, he had put a surprised official in the latter's place with the curt comment that he didn't care to discuss his affairs in public. He had lashed out at a movie camera and knocked a detective over. He had seen a mob of nearly a thousand women straining for a glimpse of him at the Chicago airport. And it had all gone to his head.

But police, even though the case may go to the grand jury today, were more interested in Irwin's answers to questions on moral standards than his grisly tale of murder in the apartment where he waited to kill Bonnie's sister, Mrs. Ethel Gedeon Kudner, "because I loved her and hated her."

Went There To Kill Her.
"I knew I could never get her out of my blood," he said, "unless she was dead. So I went there to kill her."

But Ethel was living with her husband elsewhere, and Irwin killed Mrs. Gedeon first, by accident, while the roomer, Byrnes, slept. Then Bonnie came home, and he strangled her, too, because "she recognized me and would tell on me." And then he went into the room where Byrnes was sleeping soundly, half convinced that Byrnes must have been awakened by the noise and was merely feigning sleep. He drove an icepick into the boarder's brain.

That was the story he repeated to the police this morning. He smoked cigarettes ceaselessly as he spoke.

When it was decided to postpone the re-enactment until after daybreak, a cell was prepared for him in the basement of headquarters. A 24-hour guard was posted to keep him under constant surveillance when detectives reported that he had said.

"I've often thought of killing myself."

Irwin stopped his constant deep dragging at cigarettes only long enough to eat, which he did at virtually every invitation. His appetite was incredible.

Formally Accused.
New York, June 28.—While women who had waited hours to glimpse him clucked and exclaimed—bored and haggard Robert Irwin stood before the bench in homicide court today and heard himself formally accused of the triple Gedeon murders.

The youthful sculptor who has been taking himself into the electric chair said not a word during his brief arraignment on a short affidavit. He was held without bail for a hearing Wednesday. His indictment is expected by nightfall.

Young women and old women crowded into the courtroom pushing forward as Irwin was brought in from the detention pen.

Almost before he reached the bench, the clerk was droning the short affidavit which charges simply "suspicion of homicide" in the murders of Veronica Gedeon, artist's model; her mother, Mary, and Frank Byrnes, a roomer.

Irwin said nothing, was not asked to say anything. He stared straight ahead for a few seconds, wheeled at word from his attorney, Samuel Leibowitz, and returned to the detention pen, where he and Leibowitz, whom Irwin retained by telegraph, conferred.

Youngstown, Warren, Canton and Johnstown. "This is a demonstration of peace and good will," said he, congratulating the men of the lodges and the committees responsible for this wonderful outing.

"The peace and happiness here is in sharp contrast to the conditions in the Mahoning valley and in the hills of western Pennsylvania. It seems to me this is a demonstration of what is possible where peace and good will abound."

"War is destructive. The greatest advancement for humanity is made during periods of peace. War is degrading. Today 400,000 steel workers are combined in a great humane effort to improve conditions in the nation and under signed contracts have achieved a new era of economic and political freedom."

Changing Conditions.
"Conditions are changed and changing. Some people are able to make the necessary adjustments and thus contribute to the upward advancement of humanity. There are others who do not hesitate to use their resources to resist changes and are ready to plunge the nation into industrial warfare because of their unwillingness to surrender the power they have held too long."

"The heads of those independent steel companies now at war are the last of the industrial despots in America. It is gratifying to know that the officials of the United States Steel Corporation have accommodated themselves to the changing conditions and have co-operated with the labor movement. Men like Tom Girdler and the others insist that regardless of law, regardless of custom they will retain the power they have held."

"The S.W.O.C. does not want war and in its campaign for peace thousands of workers have flocked to its banner. We had no strikes and no warfare in this part of the field and today 262 companies have signed. None were more generous to accommodate themselves to changing conditions than the United States Steel Corporation."

"Because of the refusal of the other steel heads to accommodate themselves so, we have warfare in the Mahoning Valley and in Johnstown. The C.I.O. will win this strike, make no mistake about it. Five men cannot successfully resist the onward advancement. For forty years the coal operators stood out against collective bargaining but today no sensible coal operator will suggest the use of force or better off under the collective bargaining system than he was in the old days." In the old days every company had armed gunmen in its employ. Today there are none in the coal fields.

Same Advancement.
Today we have nearly as much advancement in one year in steel as we had in forty years in the coal fields. Opponents of our plan say there is no responsibility in the C. I. O. contracts insofar as the union is concerned. They should not forget that in past years the steel workers had no chance to shoulder responsibility. They are now becoming conscious of their responsibilities. A union is a great social influence in any nation. It believes in peace and happiness and prosperity. And today we have the evidences of such happiness in this splendid gathering of the tin mill men of New Castle. I congratulate you most heartily."

Preceding Mr. Golder there were brief remarks by David Clements, president of the New Castle lodge of the Amalgamated Association and T. Louis Majors, local organizer for the S. W. O. C. Both of them bespoke their satisfaction with the picnic and the crowd attending. Some time following the speaking program the gifts located on the band stand were distributed to those fortunate enough to receive them.

Sports Program.
At two o'clock the sports program was run off in the lower end of the park with Harry White and William Hood in charge. The results of the races follow:

Boys 42 in. or under—Arthur Johnson 1st place, Harold Vance 3rd place, Phil Daugherty 2nd place.

Musball throwing contest for women—Miss Stella Zingaro, 1st, Kitty Reiter, 2nd.

In the horse shoe pitching competition Charles Miller was again crowned champion, his third straight championship. Max Downs and David Byers were the winners in the doubles events.

The day was a success due to the efforts of those in charge of the program and the co-operation of all the men and women attending.

On the dance floor some keen competition was seen as couples vied for the prizes. First prize for the "girls in blue" competition went to Miss Arline Murdock and second to Miss Anna Mollic.

In the square dance the prize went to Elsie Miniro and James McCormick.

The prize for the largest family on the grounds again went to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dorn of Marshall avenue, who have eleven in the family.

The automobile, the grand prize of the day, went to William Benninghoff, of Sheridan avenue. The balance of the prize winners had not been listed today but will be ready for tomorrow.

Closing the day a display of fireworks was presented at 10 o'clock Saturday night. Ground pieces and aerial pieces, beautifully designed, made the display an effective one.

in the afternoon, Mr. Carrara chose as his subject, "A Revival or a Revolution." It was one of the most forceful and timely messages of the entire series. Again in the evening at 7 o'clock he appeared before, and delivered his closing message to the largest gathering of all, numbering approximately 700 people. The pavilion was filled quite some time before the service hour. Those who could not get in were able to hear Mr. Carrara however through a public address system. He told the story of his life.

So beneficial were the services of Mr. Carrara that he has been engaged already as one of the speakers of the All-Summer Bible Conference of 1938, June 12 through the 26th, in East New Castle.

This is intermission week at the Gospel Pavilion but next Sunday will mark the beginning of another forceful two-weeks series to be conducted by Rev. Martin S. Charles, of California, a converted atheist, and formerly editor of the Godless World Magazine. Mr. Charles is also scheduled to speak at the well known Winona Lake Bible Conference this summer. He is rapidly becoming one of the most outstanding Bible conference speakers in America.

BLOW-OUTS TAKE NO HOLIDAY!

Only Silvertowns Give You Golden Ply Blow-out Protection

THIS is the kind of weather that gives you the urge to pack your family into the car and take long drives out into the country. But before you start out on any trip, whether it's a short one or long one, ask yourself this question—ARE YOUR TIRES SAFE?

Because at today's high speeds you can't be too sure about the condition of your tires. When the speedometer registers 30-40-50 mile after mile there's terrific heat being generated inside the tire. Unless you're protected—unless your tires can stand the "gaft"—this internal heat may, sooner or later, lead to a dangerous BLOW-OUT.

To keep you and your family off the accident list—to provide you with real blow-out protection every time you get behind the wheel, every New Goodrich Silvertown is built with the Life-Saver Golden Ply—a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist internal tire heat. With this tested, scientific protection inside your tires, the great, unseen cause of blow-outs is "licked."

Keep Danger a Stranger

Before you hear that ear-splitting, nerve-shattering BANG!—before it's too late, say to your Goodrich dealer "put a set of those tires with the Golden Ply on my car." That's the way to make every trip you take this summer a real pleasure trip. And don't forget, these life-saving, long mileage Goodrich Golden Ply Silvertowns actually cost less than other super-quality tires. Come in today.

Names New York's Little Old Lady

McIntyre Discovers Beloved Character In Ninth Avenue Jam Shop

FARMER BOYS ARE LIONIZED

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Diary: Up and two cheering notes from venerable stars of my craft, E. W. Howe and Ope Read, and Mr. Read opined: "When any other print fails Shakespeare gleams like a dewed meadow in the sunshine." Also letters from Richard Rodgers, of Rogers and Hart, and Burton Rascoe.

Out with my lady and stopped in to see Ethel Petit Roche visiting Eddy and Margaret Duchin at the Plaza, and then back to my thingumbobbling, and Chas. Driscoll editor of the syndicate that hawks my hanky panky, told me many things about Neil Vandenberg that placed him in a more favorable light with me.

To dinner at the Colony and Mrs. Duncan Holmes, newly wed had her coffee with us. And Ted Roosevelt, there with his wife and two boys, they expressing as happy a family camaraderie as any group I know. So home and my cousin Josephine played Capriccio Veneziano on the piano for me with great skill.

My choice for New York's "little old lady" sprang out of the popular song is Mary Armstrong who conducts her little jam and jelly shop for theatrical and writing folk at 174 Ninth avenue. Steel bespectacled, hair coiffed in a tight little Gay 90 knot in the back, she darts about her shelves of yum-yums like a wren in a hedge. Some of her preserves she will not sell. They must be "cooked over" in the little back yard in the rear of her shop. Katharine Cornell goes there for her loganberry jam. Mrs. Brock Pemberton for strawberries preserved in rum. And there are prunes in sherry, cherries in port, mixed apricot and orange marmalade. An old lady almost gone but not forgotten delicacy our grandmothers loved, "lemon butter." Ninth Avenue never sees Mary Armstrong outside her shop save Sunday when in her blue-black foulard with mousetraque sleeves, she goes bobbing along to morning worship.

Add a Webster thrill that comes once in a lifetime: "Shaking the sheet of tin for the thunder back stage when the repertoire show came to town."

Frazier Hunt has been hibernating in a small town in Michigan for no particular reason save he cannot stay out in one spot for more than six months to be happy. And he likes small town as well as the city. In fact, he often isolates himself far from civilization on his ranch next to the Duke of Windsor's in Alberta. Starting as "the" reporter on his home town paper in Alexis, Ill., Hunt, known to the fraternity as "Spike," has been a war correspondent in London, almost every capital of Europe and the Far East. His travels and rubs with civilization have not changed him one whit. He is still the booming voiced, square toed country boy from Alexis.

It has pleased me the way dyed-in-the-wool city folk take to the Jaspers from out yonder who have never been able completely, to shake the oats out of their hair. They would lionize them if possible. Frazier Hunt is welcome at every gathering because he is so superbly himself. Few know of the efforts to lure Will Rogers to Gold Coast parties and dinners when he came to town during the last five years of his life. No visiting member of royalty was more attractive to ambitious hostesses. But Will could not be lured. He was smart enough to know that looked upon him as just a bit different—an oddity from the usual drawing room assemblage. Anyway, he would rather flush out some chili joint and carry along his own gang—such as Amon Carter, Will Hogg, Gene Duck and some of the boys from his newspaper syndicate. Chic Sale was another always shy of meeting the hoity toity folk.

Bagatelle: Roscoe Peacock, sage of North Cohocton, N. Y., famous for his "Letters to the Editor" has been commissioned to write a book of philosophical musings. Joseph Staline's favorite dish is red cabbage soup. Wesley Winans Stout, Saturday Evening Post editor, began as a reporter on Henry Allen's Wichita Beacon. And plays a wicked game of draw poker. W. C. Fields is a devout student of Webster's dictionary, preferring to discover unusual words to the plot of the modern novel. Jean Harlow's favorite writer was Catherine Brush. She made one of her biggest hits in Miss Bush's "Red Headed Woman." Fred Allen still bashes when anyone catches him sneaking a chew of tobacco, his favorite method of using the weed.

A Texas long horn somehow wandered into The Cork Club at the crowded cocktail hour the other afternoon. A bit bewildered by the smartly dressed crowd, he started to sneak out when a barkeep asked him what he would have: "I was hunting a snort of red-eye," he drawled. "But so long as I'm here fluting up one of those lady finger things, I've always wanted to know how it feels to be a sissy."

To his many and varied duties as examiner and state highway patrolman, John Hardy, Jr., stationed at Butler, has added still another—that of horse chasing. Patrolman Hardy drove to the scene and captured the animal which, after its little fling, submitted tamely enough.

H. L. Buchanan, of Franklin, was elected president of the Western Pennsylvania Funeral Directors' Association at the annual convention of the association which closed late last week at Conneaut Lake. Four hundred fifty undertakers and demonstrators attended the sessions.

Love will no longer be blind if the new scientific gadget proposed by Dr. Phillips Thomas of Pittsburgh works out the way he believes it will. It will operate somewhat on the order of the "lie detector," and will do much, Dr. Thomas says, to solve that age-old "she loves me, she loves me not" riddle.

Uncle Sam has got interested in the number of stills taken by state and county officers in this county in the past few weeks and will probably take over the cases for prosecution. Captain Wally Bowers and J. A. Clifford, both Federal men were in the city over the week end making arrangements to have the cases transferred to the Federal courts.

Renting a bootlegger a house to conduct a still these days is rather expensive business. For example, if you live on a farm, and own an additional farm on which there is a vacant house. If you rent the old house to a person engaged in the manufacture of illicit liquor the government has the power to confiscate not only the farm upon which the still is located but also the house and farm upon which you reside.

Bootlegging these days is more of a crime than it was when prohibition was in vogue. In the minds of many people the bootlegger then was glorified and his arrest was regretted. Today the bootlegger gets no sympathy from either the wets or the dries.
